

WATERFRONT HAPPENINGS

THIS WEEKEND: New Waterfront Festival hosted by waterfront businesses!

You had us at family-friendly entertainment, live music with Elliott Bay as a backdrop, and tasty bites from our favorite restaurants. We can't wait for tomorrow's New Waterfront Festival at Waterfront Park! Big kudos to our friends on the waterfront who made this event possible.

Enjoy tunes from McTuff, Stephanie Anne Johnson, ChebonChebon, Geoffrey Castle and Wanz, grab a bite from Highway 99 Blues Club or The Fisherman's Restaurant & Bar, and kick back for a 45-minute light show on the Seattle Great Wheel accompanied by a Vaudeville Etiquette performance.

- Saturday, October 4, 2014
- 2 to 8 PM
- FREE
- Waterfront Park, 1301 Alaskan Way
- Visit the New Waterfront Festival website for more details!

Visit DowntownSeattleParking.com to find cheap parking in Downtown Seattle's Pioneer Square and Waterfront neighborhoods.

SEAWALL PROJECT: Second season of construction is underway

Seawall construction resumed this week along the central waterfront. Many destinations in the work area are open, including the Seattle Aquarium, Argosy Cruises, the Seattle Great Wheel and Pier 57, Pike Place Market, and businesses on the east side of Alaskan Way. The Seawall Project's toolkit has details on construction and information about the best routes to and from the waterfront. If you have questions, connect with the Seawall Project Street Team at (206) 618-8584 or seawall@waterfrontseattle.org. Or, sign up for weekly construction updates.

Waterfront Seattle scale model on the move!

The Waterfront model recently made the trek to Benaroya Hall, where it will be on display through November 21. Visit the Boeing Company Gallery to see our 14-foot scale model showing the conceptual design for Seattle's future waterfront. Model viewing is free and open to the public.
